Dear Mr. Jonsson:

Thank you for your October 3rd inquiry regarding the use of Fuel FX Reactor devices.

In response to your questions regarding the use of this device, our response is that Cummins fuel recommendations and specifications are outlined in the Operation and Maintenance manuals for each engine family. Those manuals are shipped with each engine and available for sale at your local Cummins distributor.

Fuel reactor related failures are not considered Cummins Inc. warranty responsibility.

Cummins Inc. neither approves nor disapproves any product not manufactured or sold by Cummins Inc. The use of these products is at the discretion of the end-user, and any problems attributed to these products would not be recognized as a Cummins Inc. responsibility.

Cummins Inc. warranty covers defects in workmanship and/or material as manufactured and sold by Cummins; therefore any product sold in the marketplace not manufactured by Cummins Inc. does not affect our warranty. Any engine performance problem or failure caused by products not manufactured or sold by Cummins is not considered a warrantable type of failure.

Cummins Inc. name, Cummins trademark and Cummins logo are the property of Cummins Inc. are not to be used in the advertising or promotional activity by anyone except with the express written authority of Cummins Inc.

Nothing in this letter is to be construed as any authorization by Cummins Inc. to use the Cummins name, trademark or logo in the sale or promotional activity of your product.

Very truly yours,
